

STRUCTURAL HERMENEUTICS

TABLE OF CONTENTS

- PART I. INTRODUCTION TO HERMENEUTICS AND VEDIC INTERPRETATION p.1
- I. Veda as foundation of the Science of Creative Intelligence. p.1
 - II. Veda as a priori universal knowledge of natural law. p.7
 - III. Introduction to Hermeneutics p. 14
 - IV. The Karma Mimansa System of Vedic Interpretation p. 22
 - V. Vedic Study p. 28
 - VI. Mathematical interpretation p. 33
- PART TWO: STRUCTURAL HERMENEUTICS p.34
- I. Introduction to Structural Hermeneutics p.34
 - II. Fundamental Principles of Structural Hermeneutics p. 46
 - A. Categories of Meaning: The Eight Prakritis p. 47
 - B. The Principles of Sequential Unfoldment p. 56
 1. The tree is contained in the first sprouting of the seed. p. 56
 2. Complete knowledge at every stage. p. 58
 3. Knowledge arises from the gap. p. 60
 4. The Principle of Congruence. p. 62
 - C. Magnetic structure: The balance of opposite values p. 67
 1. Theoretical exposition of the magnetic structure. p. 67
 2. Application of the magnetic structure to the process of interpretation. p. 73
 - D. The Principle of Adhikas. p. 75
 1. The Saṁhitā of Rishi, Devatā and Chhandas. p. 78
 2. Adhikas as organizing principles of the Veda. p. 79
 3. The relationship of the name of the rishi, devatā and chhandas to the content of the cognition. p. 80
 4. Application of adhikas to the process of interpretation. p.83
 5. Interpretation of the name of the rishi. p. 83
 6. The Devatā. p. 89
 7. Interpretation of the chhandas value of the text. p. 94
 8. Conclusion. p. 99
 - III. The Primacy of Method in Vedic Interpretation p.100
 - A. Structural hermeneutics necessary for entry into the meaning of the Veda. p. 100
 - B. Interpretation as commentary rather than translation. p. 101
 - C. The Aranyaka-based commentary. p. 102
 - D. Limits of Interpretation of the Veda. p. 105
 - E. The crucial role of personal experience of transcendental consciousness. p. 105
 - F. Methodological conclusions. p. 106
 - IV. Semantic Content of the Vedic text. p. 108
 - A. Limitations of an historical approach. p. 108

STRUCTURAL HERMENEUTICS

- B. Universality of the experience of transcendental consciousness. p. 109
- C. Transcendental consciousness as the basis of Vedic knowledge. p. 110
- D. Speciality of the ninth mandala. p. 110
- E. Experience and intellectual understanding of TC in the Science of Creative Intelligence applied to interpretation
- F. Modern science and the three 'Eurekas.' p. 114
- G. The need to reawaken the wholeness of Vedic knowledge. p. 116

PART III: VEDIC STUDY p. 118

- I. The Cognitions of Shunahshepa: Rig Veda 9th Mandala, Sukta 3 p. 118
- II. Cognitions of Avatsāra: Rig Veda 9th Mandala, Sukta 60 p. 120
- III. The Rishi Avatsāra p. 122
 - A. Roots of the Name of the Rishi p. 122
 - B. Essay on the Rishi Avatsārah p. 122
- IV. Demonstration of the Application of Structural Hermeneutic Principles of Interpretation to the Translation of 9.60.1. p. 125
 - Author's Translation p. 125
 - Nineteenth Century Translations p. 125
 - A. Prakriti Predictions based on analysis of the mandala structure p. 125
 - Mandala Prakriti prediction p. 125
 - Mandala Prakriti verification p. 125
 - Dasha Prakriti prediction p. 125
 - Dasha Prakriti verification p. 126
 - Antardasha Prakriti prediction p. 126
 - Antardasha Prakriti verification p. 126
 - B. Seed and Tree. p. 127
 - Seed and Tree Prediction p. 127
 - Seed and Tree Verification p. 127
 - C. Congruence. p. 128
 - Prediction: The richa as elaborated commentary on one word from the first sukta p. 128
 - Verification: The richa as elaborated commentary on one word from the first sukta p. 128
 - D. Opposites. p. 128
 - Verification of the opposite and complementary richa p. 128
 - E. Richo Akshare p. 131
 - Prediction of the role played by the richa in the sequential unfoldment of knowledge in the sukta p. 131
 - Verification of the role played by the richa in the sequential unfoldment of knowledge in the sukta p. 131
 - E. Rishi, Devata and Chhandas. p. 131
 - Summary prediction of the content of the cognition based on the name of the Rishi p. 131
 - Verification of the prediction of the content of the cognition based on the name of the Rishi p. 131

STRUCTURAL HERMENEUTICS

Prediction of the content of the cognition from the impulses of the name of the devata p. 132

Verification of the content of the cognition from the impulses of the name of the devata p. 132

Prediction of the form of the cognition from the name of the chhandas, (meter) p. 132

Verification of the prediction of the form of the cognition from the name of the chhandas, (meter) p. 133

F. Word by word meanings for 9.60.1. p. 133

G. The knowledge of immortality located in the perfect balance of the fundamental impulses of natural law, the eight prakritis. p. 134

Prediction of the knowledge of Immortality contained in each richa of the ninth mandala p. 135

Verification of the knowledge of Immortality contained in each richa of the ninth mandala p. 135

Footnotes p. 137